

HIBACHI

Fried Egg Promo

GRAIL GAMES

Rules for the Fried Egg:

Using the fried egg throwing chip is simple, but adds more unpredictability to Hibachi!

Each round, before players throw any chips onto the board, the current head chef throws the egg chip onto the board. (If the egg lands off the board at this time it should be thrown again.) Then players will begin throwing their chips on the board as normal, starting with the head chef.

Any chips sitting on the same spot as the egg at the commencement of the Cleaning the Cooking Area phase are removed from the board and the space is not resolved this round! The egg comes into effect before any action space is resolved, or any chili cards are collected from the stack.

In other words:

If the egg ends up on an ingredient bowl, that ingredient cannot be bought or sold this round.

If the egg lands on an action spot, no player earns that special action this round.

If the egg lands on the red area of the board, then no player collects chili cards this round!

At the end of a round, the egg chip is thrown on the board anew by the next starting chef.

Players should keep the egg in mind as they throw their chips each round if they don't want the egg to finish the round on a spot they are hoping to benefit from!
